

gMed Reinforces Management Team

Weston, Fla. (June 23, 2009) - gMed is proud to announce and welcome its new Vice President of Sales and Business Development, Daniel Ghelman and its new Vice President of Product Development Bruce Kantelis to the Senior Management Team.

Daniel Ghelman is a seasoned professional with practical experience in diverse senior management positions in large public corporations such as Motorola and Procter & Gamble. His successful experience includes multinational sales management, strategy and marketing working with various types of organizations in different vertical markets. Daniel has lived in Buenos Aires, Caracas, Chicago, Florida and Tokyo serving customers all around the world. During his most recent assignment, he was president of a Motorola subsidiary in Japan. He holds a BA in Psychology and a MBA from the University of Illinois at Chicago.

Bruce Kantelis has more than 20 years of leadership experience managing enterprise software development initiatives and guiding companies through the change management process. An accomplished corporate strategist and technologist, his vision and expertise in aligning technology initiatives with strategic business needs have driven notable growth and improvement in companies. Offering a rare blend of technical and operational strengths, Bruce has achieved exciting company and product turnarounds and is recognized for his success in growing sales and profits. Bruce recently served as a Vice President for Fortune 20 McKesson Corp., where his mobile product strategy and products were awarded a Gartner Group Magic Quadrant Award. His achievements have been featured in Application Development Trends Magazine, Computerweek, and Infoworld. Bruce has served on the Sprint Advisory Board and the Toshiba Advisory Board and received a BA degree in Business Administration from Boston University.

Joe Rubinsztain, MD says, "gMed must constantly improve to maintain its position as the leading specialty EHR vendor in the United States. Daniel and Bruce were carefully selected from a pool of very accomplished applicants and we are certain their contribution, experience and drive will help gMed take advantage of exciting new opportunities in our field."
